GREETINGS

To the Graduating Class of 1969

My sincere congratulations to you upon your successful completion of high school. The faculty, your families and your friends share with me a mutual pride on this occasion.

To last year's graduating class, I wrote:

"These are trying times. We seek peace based on justice, we hope for racial and religious freedom and equality, and we yearn for the day when poverty ceases to stalk our land. The day of recognition of such tragic conditions and their consequences is upon us."

I suggested that they join the thousands of their fellow high school graduates throughout the land to work toward the solutions of these problems.

As you leave the classrooms and continue your education in college or enter the business world, you, too, will find that these conditions cry out for your helping hands. You dare not reject your share of the burden.

The honors you have brought to your school, your ready acceptance of a myriad of responsibilities as good school citizens, the knowledge you have acquired here, the development of a certain faith in yourself that has been born here—all these are evidence of your capacity for worthy citizenship.

The greatest contribution you can make for yourself and your country is to continue your education or training. The threat of military service looms as a deterrent to immediate continuation of education for young men. Education, however, can continue during the period of service to country, to be followed by a return to full time education in the future.

In this age of a complex society and an endless growth of technology, our nation can and will remain strong and prosperous only when each young American pursues and acquires all the education and training that he can possibly acquire.

You have my sincere best wishes for a lifetime of success and achievement in your chosen field.

Never hesitate to return to us for assistance—you will always be most welcome .

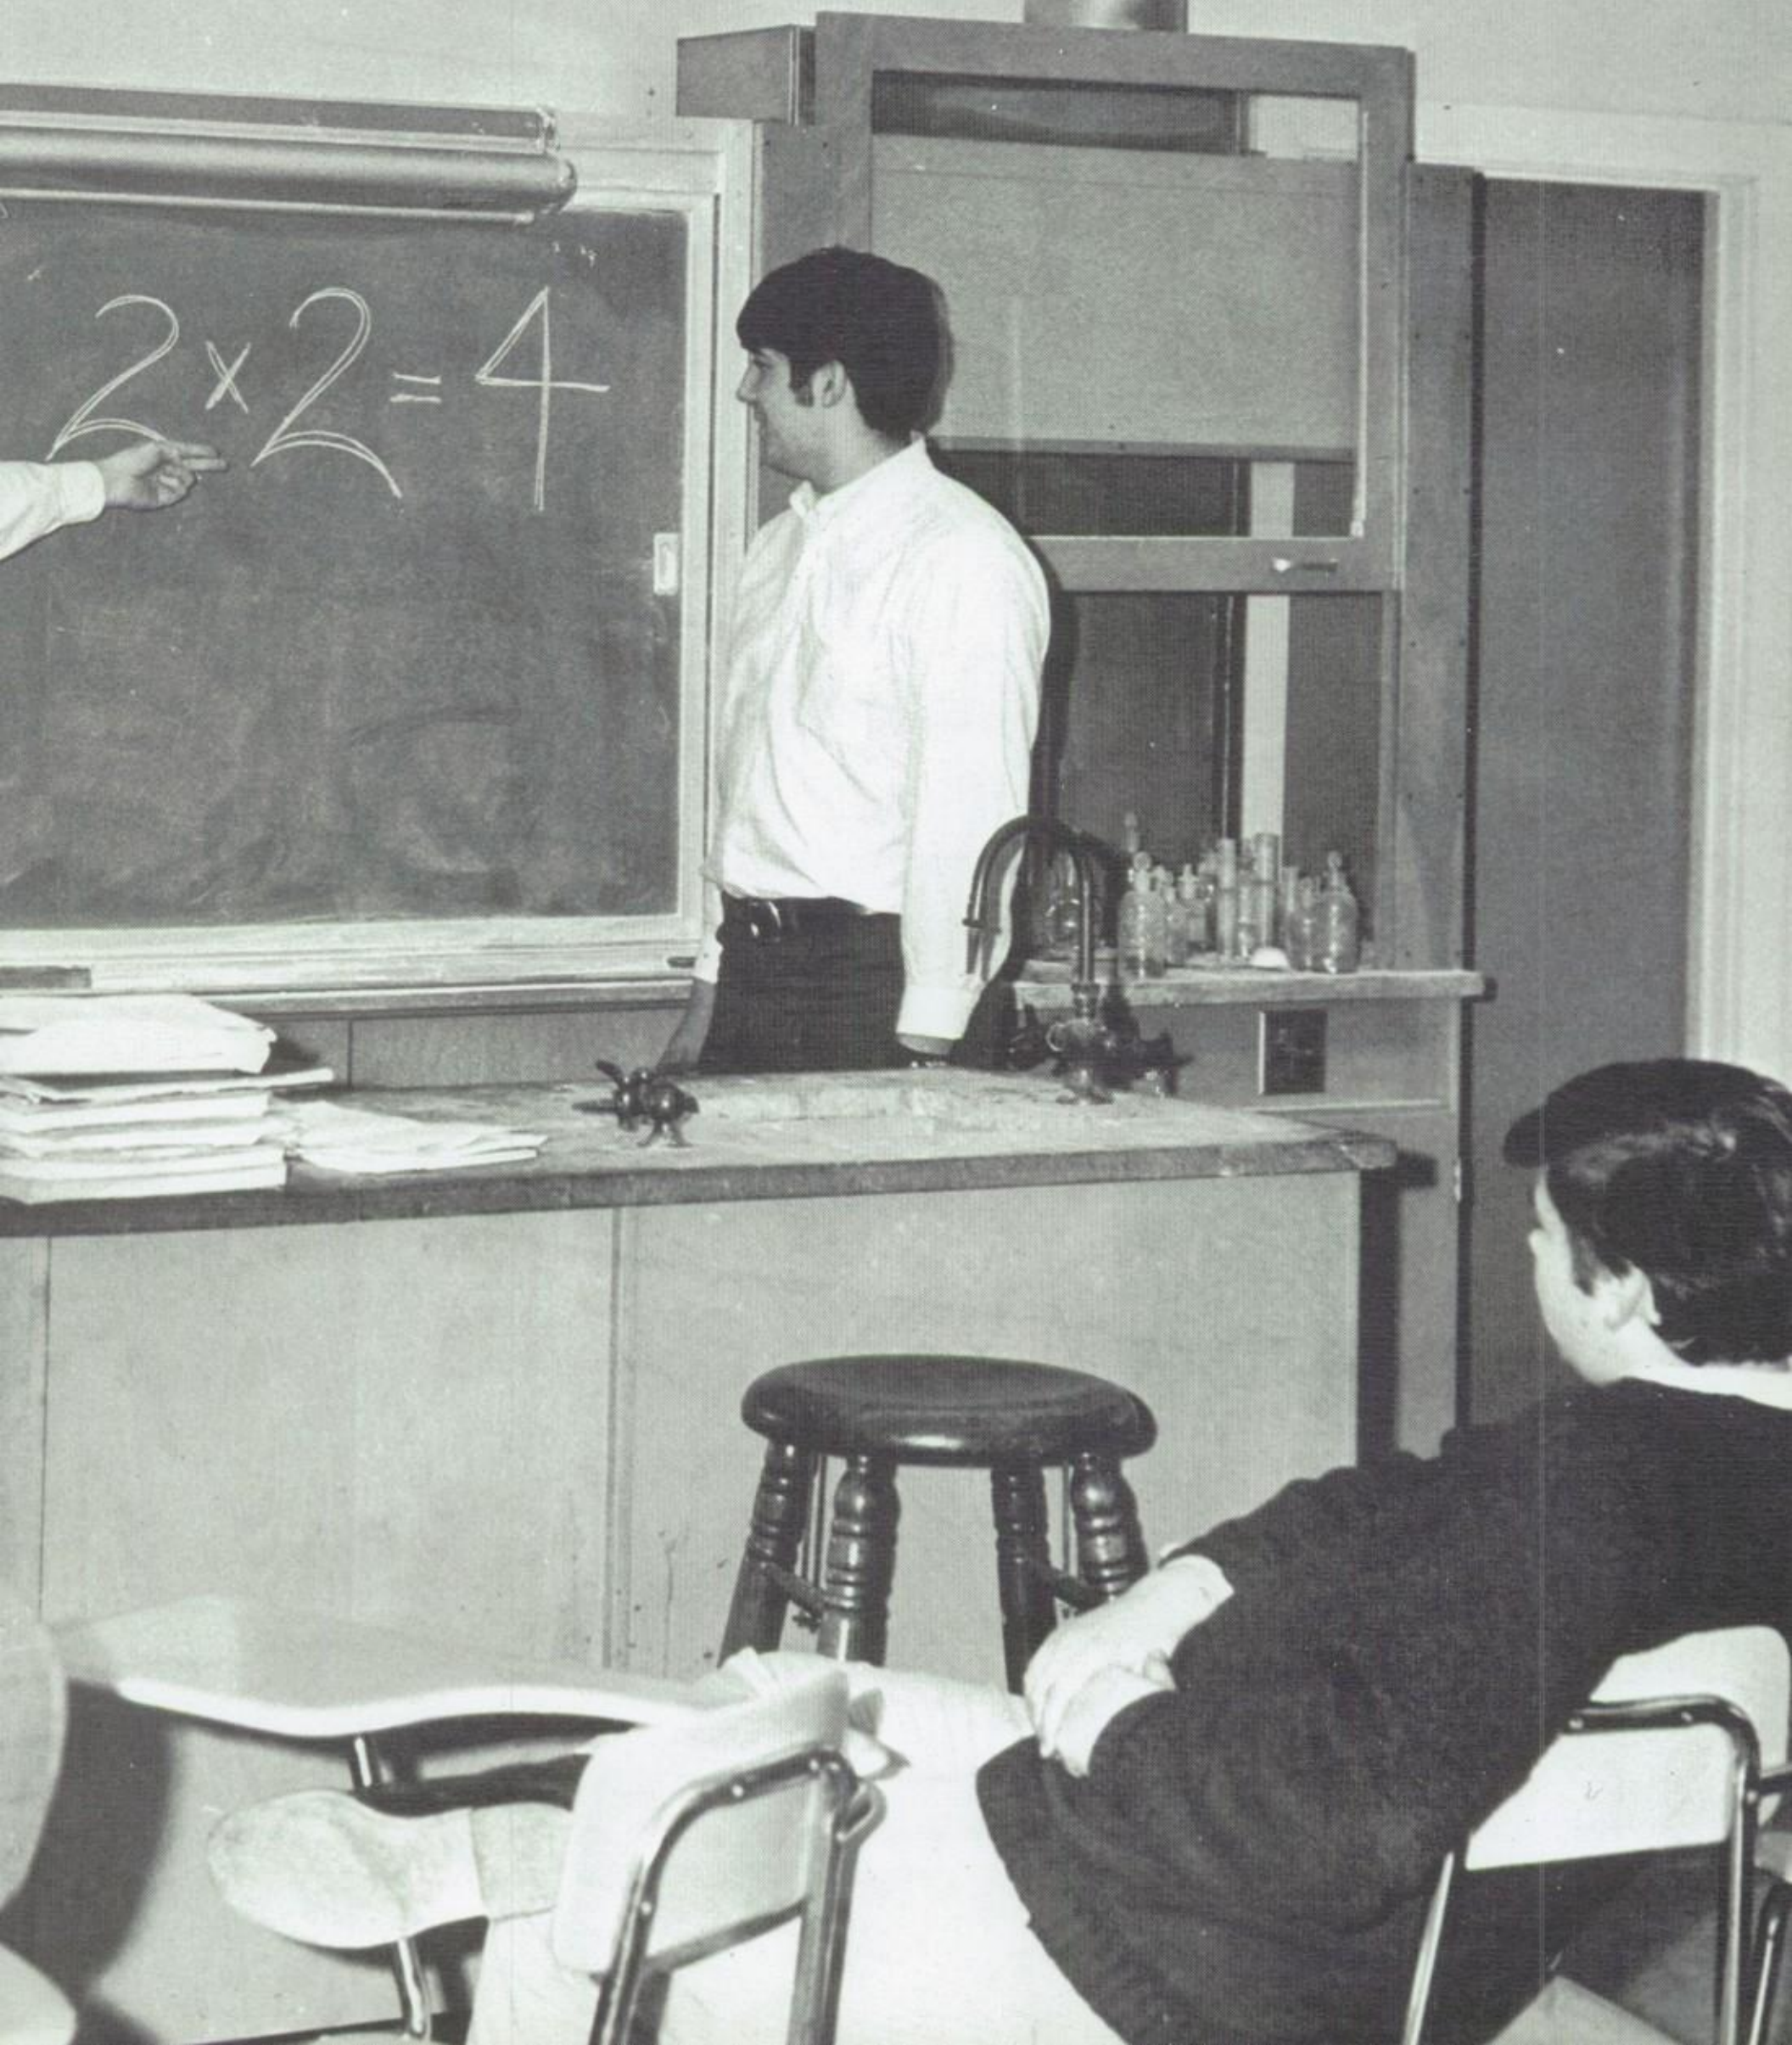

E. FRANCIS KANE

Senior Class Officers
Our Leaders

Anticipating a dress code revision, Senior Class Officers, led by President (Squire) Mullen, symbolically celebrated the coming victory with a No Dress Code Day. For a quarter, the seniors could wear whatever they wished—almost. The results were quite amusing and not without profit. Bags and bags of quarters? Appetites whetted with financial success, our leaders next staged a computer dance with Canton High, all mates guaranteed. The quarters this time helped subsidize our senior prom. Dress Codes—Computer mates. Oh, Brave New Milton High.

ACTIVITIES

Work, dedication, and responsibility

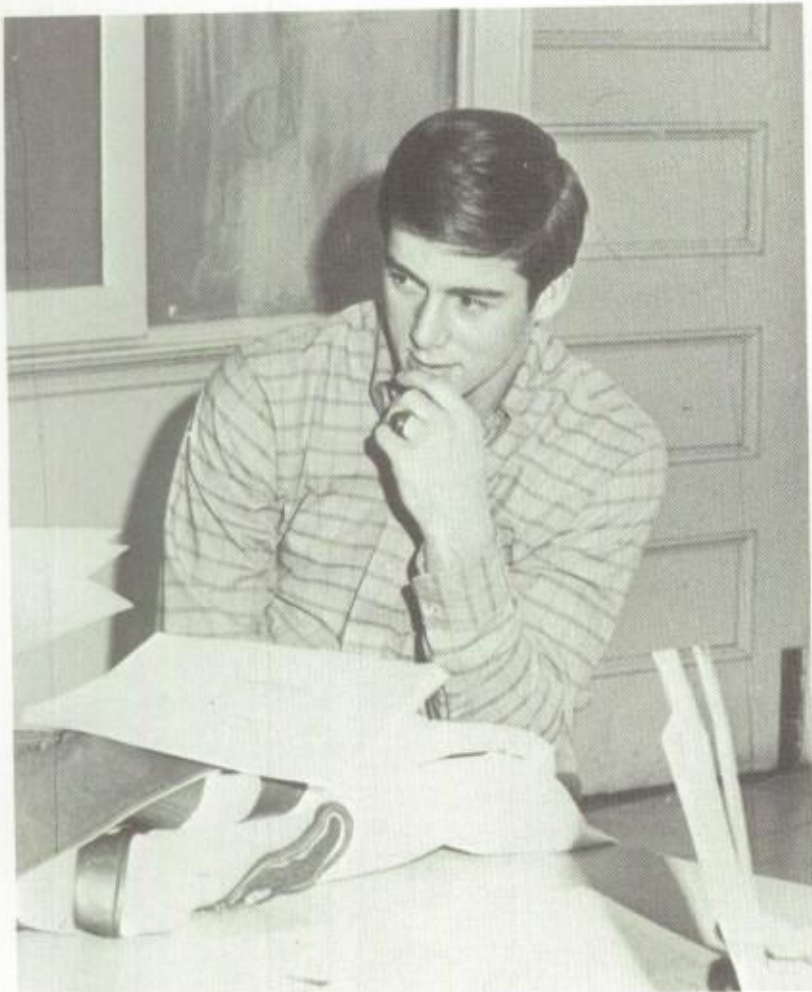

Co-editors Faye Golder and Ed Meek, and staff have struggled diligently to produce this spring's edition of the Echo magazine. These people put in untold hours editing and compiling their material in order to give faithful and comprehensive coverage to M.H.S. ideas. The keynote of this staff is work, dedication and responsibility. And, Miss Pat Nelson.

RESISTANCE TO CHANGE

Editor Arlene Kelly, and her dedicated staff continued to nurture our still new and growing newspaper, The Advocate. This year, the staff decided to publish The Advocate on a biweekly basis, improve the paper's overall structure, and present articles of genuine interest to the student body. People resist change, unfortunately, and the newspaper must circumvent this resistance if it is to survive as a true school organ. Hopefully, with perseverance, school support and a tenured staff, this will happen. Good luck to you, Advocate.

And where is my controversial assignment?

YEARBOOK LITERARY

Donna Cummings, co-editor in chief, perpetual motion machine and energy system behind this year's publication, made your yearbook her prime concern; everything else was secondary. Dedication isn't the word for Donna; "addiction" is closer to the picture. She turned on in September and hasn't gone out yet. As a result, you now have in your hands one of the best yearbooks ever produced at Milton High.

Alan Trombley, co-editor in chief, was the guy who gave direction to Donna's kilowatts. He was the method man who got things done, and done on time. Deadline, to him, was a sacred word, and snow, flu-bugs, sleep or even the powers to be never dared interfere. This is what a yearbook needs, what it must have, and what it got. Maybe we were lucky in '69, maybe not. For it seems that guys like Alan make their own luck, only this year it was ours too.

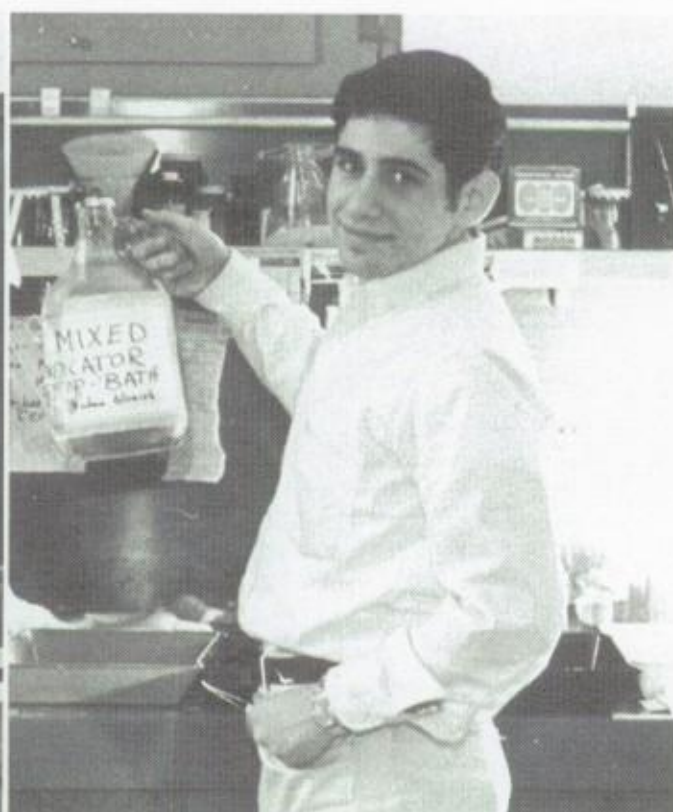

One hundred eighty-four pages; over three thousand proofs; eight hundred or so prints; a slew of write-ups, captions, dividers, etc. These add up to a lot of sweat, but they also add up to a lot of yearbook, a yearbook that has grown fifty-six new pages in the last three years, making it the largest and probably the best book to date. And the best staff this advisor ever saw put it together. To accomplish this, they regularly worked a "four hour day," three 'til seven, weekends adn even holidays. Many times four darkrooms were in service at one time. As a matter of fact, the food bill alone ran well over the hundred mark. Yet they did it all, and they did it all themselves. No professional help was needed and none was wanted. They did the photos, the printing, the developing, the cover design, dividers, writing—everything. It was, in effect, an acute case of "I'd rather do it myself, Mother." This independent spirit was punctuated with a drive and ambition that at times fell just short of addiction. Yet this is the atmosphere that is essential to the birth of a yearbook, an atmosphere that says we will get the job done, either because of circumstances or, if necessary, in spite of circumstances.

The best this advisor ever saw.

Candy Fisher and Malcolm Musiker, two of the forces that turned out your proofs and prints, spent many a sunny afternoon, weekend, and holiday in black seclusion in order to produce your faces on these pages. Candy became so attached to the dark that she built her own darkroom. Mal already had one. Dacey, by the way, is the artist that drew your dividers, in the daylight. But now he likes the dark too. True vampires all.

Malcolm worked all three darkrooms, his, the school's, and 590's. He was the photographic brains of the outfit. Mal sums up like this: he's a smart, hard worker who's dependable. He has a friend (X), who is also smart, hard working and dependable. They both have Nikons with all the goodies and know how to use them. Figure out how this combination can be replaced. Reward.

Malcolm and "X."

Candy and Lia Seminara, the print twins, generally worked their long dark-room stints together. This time, however, Mike made the scene and furnished some comic relief. Kidding aside, these people worked long, hard hours and deserve much credit.

Marie, Pam, and Bunny

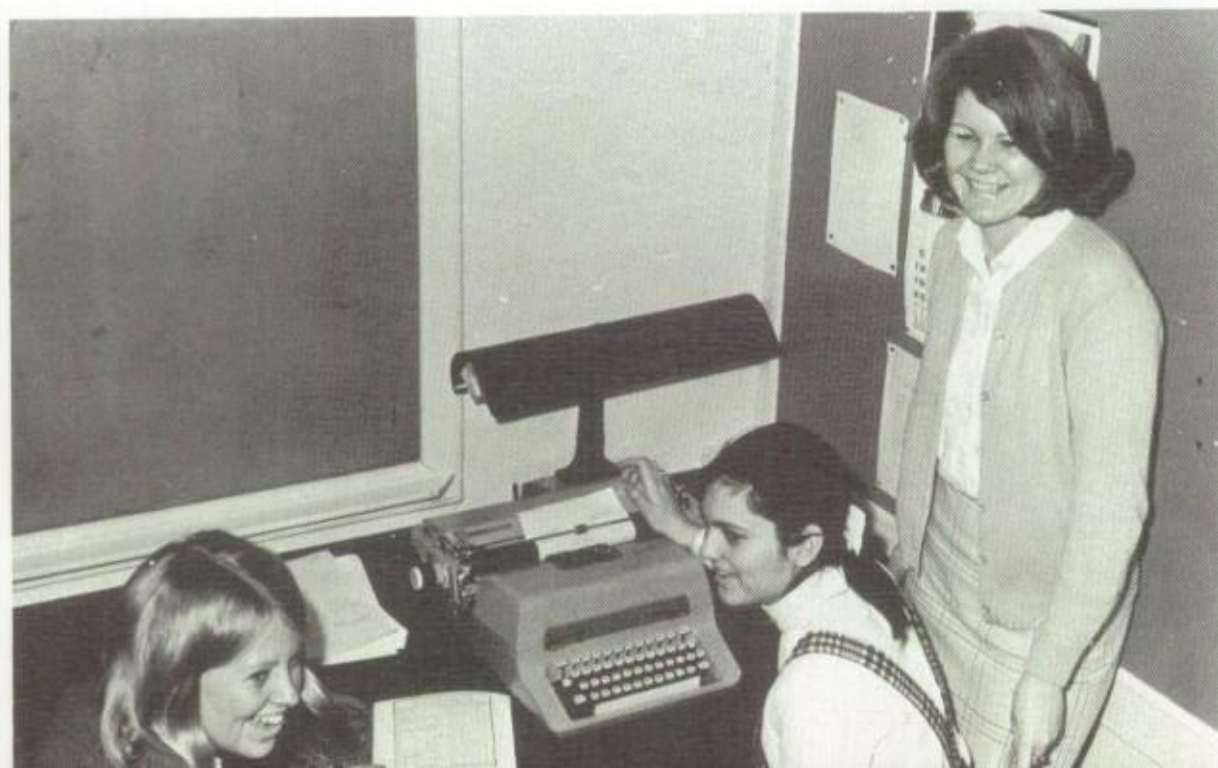

Jeannie, Gayle, and Hugh

Judy and Martha

Pam, Bunny, Jeannie, Joyce, and Carla, although junior members of our staff, produced in a true senior fashion. The experience gained will stand this publication in good stead next year; in fact there's editor material afoot here somewhere. Marie, our senior typist, never missed a deadline session; and Judy and Martha, our literary editors, never missed the dirty work. Judy, as a matter of fact, never missed anything; she was as "addicted" as Donna. These were the people who wrote, rewrote, captioned, typed, and then wrote some more. A tireless, thankless job well done. Congratulations.

Marie, Joyce, and Carla

YEARBOOK BUSINESS

Wiley and crew

Without them this publication could not exist

The business department, an integral part of our staff, although behind the scenes, performs a function essential to the publication of this yearbook. They collect money which we need badly, sell ads, and solicit boosters. This job is fairly thankless; however, without them this publication could not exist.

HONOR SOCIETIES

National Honor Society

The N.H.S. is comprised of students whose scholastic ability, service, and character merit special attention. Besides tutoring and raising money for a scholarship fund, a trip to the Sixth N.H.S. Regional Chapter meeting in Milford highlighted this year's activities. Here, after lectures from two college admissions personnel, the members balloted and voted for next year's officers. A smorgasbord dinner followed. Incidentally, twelve members of the N.H.S. received Letters of Commendation for outstanding performance in the National Merit Exam.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Pondering the dress code

This year's Student Council and Homeroom Delegation, headed by Miss Thelma Belle Foster, was more active than it has been for several years. In seriously considering and acting on suggestions from the student body, the Council sponsored a Sophomore Breakfast, and a candy sale for the Heart Fund. Then as basketball season began, the Council again sold candy at the games for the scholarship fund. Nevertheless, the Council's major accomplishment was passing the new dress code, which abolished ties for boys and permitted sandals and culottes for girls. Congratulations on a very good year.

Early in October, one hundred twenty odd candidates were sworn to their seven virtues in a quiet, candlelit ceremony. Following this semi-solemn service, Mrs. Roland cordially invited all to the annual banquet in the cafeteria. Here, rows of F.H.A. salads and casseroles greeted members and illustrious guests alike. During the meal, Jeanne Zaslaw and her guitar provided entertainment. Later, over coffee, club president and National Secretary Helen Newcomb gave highlights of her trip to the Florida National Convention. At the close, officers and members made quick and cheerful work of cleaning up. With one hundred and twenty odd candidates, it seems everyone is itching to become a mother.

Miss Thelma Belle Foster greeted us at the door and took our tickets. We checked our coats free with the Student Council and then we stood around a while. Besides Bingo in German and other fatherland activities, our small but well disciplined German Club paid a slide visit to Central Germany and a Ratskeller at Tivoli. ## SPANISH CLUB

As Miss Bocash watched over all, Jane Erlandson's shattering blow to the traditional Piñata opened festivities at the annual Spanish Club Christmas party. After everyone had gathered the goodies, Ed Bromfield and Alan Trombley entertained with carols, folk songs, and Bill Cosby imitations. The door prize, a genuine Spanish sombrero, was drawn for and presented to Mary Hawn. Refreshments were served, ending festivities.

SATURNALIA

Miss Schultz—Fearless Leader.

The Latin Club's Saturnalia was an epic in modern drama. Skits of Charlie Brown and a Revolutionary War comedy highlighted the afternoon. The finale consisted of half the audience leaving, and the other half swarming onstage, to sing Christmas carols with the cast—in Latin already. Refreshments followed.

The bidding began slowly, but auctioneer Ken Comer's oratory quickly livened the pace. Slave leader, Shultz, added some local color as the slaves went down one by one. The Mystery Slave, who after creeping about for a while, turned out to be Steve Creedon. He sold for nine dollars. On the Day of the Slaves many masters acquired a sudden burst of scholarship and tremendous appetites. However, the slave labor did bring reward: money. This money will be used for such serious pursuits as the club's pizza party and possibly a trip or two.

Our band, the largest in a long time, and the Glee Club, plus other local talent, united this year in our annual presentation of the Winter Concert. A few interesting highlights of the evening were solos by Debbie Burnham, Jackie Scott, and Jeff Webb, all true nightingales. Also, an instrumental quartet, featuring Ed Bromfield on guitar, Barry Gesserman and Ross Leibovitz on sax, and Mitchell Golner on drums, grooved out a bit of slightly acid folk-rock. Finally, the Band and Chorus united in a few straight numbers concluding the evening. All in all, this joint activity was a success, and it is hoped that the idea will grow into something even bigger next year.

DEBATING

Feldman, Gallagher vs. Regan, Gallant—A heated debate

Debating Club

This year our debating club ran into some bad luck. President Joan Gallagher and advisor Mr. Seimonian arranged numerous intermural meets, but the flu epidemic cancelled them all. The team did, however, enjoy some very successful and at times heated intramural debates. Hopefully, next year our club will be able to compete against other schools, showing them the acumen and logic our institution is widely noted for.

F.T.A.

The Future Teachers of America gathered around Mr. Chick to plan their year's agenda. They decided upon a visit to Wheelock College, and another Mr. Cool contest. The girls planned to wind up the year observing elementary and junior high school teachers and their methods. The one problem with this club, however, is that it doesn't have any future boy teachers. How 'bout that, Mr. Chick.

The illustrious members of the Chess Club participated in several scintillating matches against each other and against other schools. President Bob Dacey proved his incredible skill as a chess player by demolishing every member of the chess club, and single handedly cutting five members of the wrestling team in a single swoop. The club plans to have a more comprehensive team next year.

DRAMA CLUB

Drama Club

69's Drama Club acquired a new advisor, Mr. Dow. The club was divided into two equal parts, Miss Cave carrying the club meetings, and Mr. Dow directing the plays. The Solid Gold Cadillac, the first play of the season, was a box office success. As a follow-up, a one act play, Good-Bye to the Clown, and excerpts from Don Juan in Hell were performed. The National Thespians, a dramatic honor society, low this year, hopes to bring its membership up to par by June. Hopefully, we will retain our national charter.

SOLID GOLD CADDY

Standing beside my switchbox on the night of the play, I found myself involved yet strangely distant from the players. I had memorized every lighting change, and almost every line spoken. I remembered the hours spent on costuming, staging, and props. And, the dress rehearsal (the night nothing seemed to go right) still clogged my brain. But here it was, all together, and my mind was withstanding three months of hard labor compressed into a few hours. This was the play as seen by Novick, Olander and other stage crew members. To some, a child's look of adoration means more than all the "thank you's" in the world. We have forty of these people in Milton High—the Volunteens. These girls dedicate their time during and after school working in various hospitals, homes for the aged, and institutions in various underprivileged neighborhoods.

On December 16th, the volunteens from Milton High, Fontbonne, and Milton Academy, threw a Christmas party in the Milton High School cafeteria for kids from Boston Settlement Houses. Pin the Tail on the Donkey, Simon Says and other games kept the children happy for the afternoon. Mike Harrison played Santa, and all of the kids got presents.

Punch, popcorn, and cookies brought by the girls were served up and all disappeared by the time the kids were ready to leave.

The volunteens are not highly publicized or well paid, but their smiles and their help are never forgotten.

DATA PROCESSING

Data Processing Assistants

Did you feed the monster today?

Deep in the bowels of our school beats the mysterious throb of 006, the heart of our intelligence system. The people who run this complex monster are known as Data Processing Assistants. These mysterious people are the ones who run off our lovely schedules and report cards. They are also working up a few new surprises for next year. It's rumored that the "thing" might even program us to think. Is this true, Mr. Bubbles?

Office Assistants

This is your assistant speaking

Guidance Assistants

GUIDANCE

Across the hall from the office assistants are the guidance assistants. This is not what one would call a highly publicized group; in fact, many people are unaware they exist. However, they are invaluable in keeping the guidance department running smoothly, and in making sure that we all get to see our counsellors at least twice a year—and brush regularly.

Essential for smooth running

We're not widely publicized, you know

Two real beavers

OFFICE

Assistants really assist. One way of looking at assistants is to look at the assistants assisting in the office. These people are expected to assist in all the usual laborious tasks assistants are assigned. So any time you're in the office, just look around—they're real beavers, and eager is their business.

Library Assistants

A pass to where?

They stamp all kinds of little numbers

LIBRARY

Library assistants are very talented people. They arrange books, write passes, and stamp numbers in books. They give Mrs. Pilch lots of help, especially during those trying days when things really get rough.

Faculty Assistants

Mr. Campbell and faculty assistants

Some would rather help here

SPECIAL CLASS

There are those who would rather work with an exceptional child than type for teachers, deliver attendance, etc. These are the Special Class Assistants. During free periods they play with the children and teach them what they can. But more important, they give them friendship and understanding, and some might even say love.

They give more—friendship, even love.

FACULTY

Our faculty needs help. Help in typing all the records and hand-outs which are necessary for comprehensive teaching. Therefore, we have faculty assistants. These people type and arrange papers for the teachers so that they may have more time to devote to their students.

Three hundred copies—all ruined?

Little George making it big.

The kids got off to a dancing start as the Milton community hosted METCO at the Parkway Methodist Church. A casserole dinner and deep down dinner speeches started the festivities. Later, as the parents talked after-dinner philosophies in the "big" room, the kids slid off and grooved it to "Richard White" records.

In school the kids groove it too. Eric (the Big E), one of the best sophomore ball handlers at Milton, does his stuff on the hoop, Jackie Scott sings it up concert style, Steve Knowles is working on his decathlon, and Little George is making it big all around. In fact, all of the kids have found some notch to slip into, and they seem to like it here. We wish them the best.

FIVE FACES OF FOOTBALL . . .

Clicking in unison.

. . . WINNING.

Just twenty more yards . . .

Skip runs for six.

... winning. At the Carota Memorial Game against Norwood, our team clicked in unison. This unification was evident from the opening kickoff when Milton caused and recovered a Norwood fumble. A touchdown drive followed, giving Milton an 8-0 lead. Later in the period, a 40 yard bomb from quarterback Lapworth to end Fran Wall sent Wall for 35 yards and six more points. The second period saw Norwood gaining some success in blocking our team's drive. Still, Milton just missed another score on a pass from quarterback Hannon to Fran Wall; it was called back for illegal procedure. This was a beautiful play but—please learn to count, boys.

A scoreless third period followed despite a field goal attempt by Milton at Norwood's twenty yard line. Fullback Ed Meek rushed all third period and the Norwood defense sagged. And our defense took their backfield like Grant took Richmond. To complete Norwood's destruction, Lapworth ran in a beautiful touchdown halfway through the last quarter making the final score 20-0.

Football is winning, even if only once in a while.

Meek rushed . . .

... and Norwood's defense sagged.

Last minute instructions.

... Losing.

... losing. On Thanksgiving morning two anxious crowds eyed each other across Braintree's field. A short distance away, inside a locker room, our team fidgeted and sweat as coaches Brennan and Lapworth gave their final instructions. Back on the field, Braintree won the toss and Milton's defensive line swung into action with the kickoff. Minutes later, quarterback Skip Lapworth found himself dumped by a heavy Braintree tackle; on the next play Skip's right knee cartilage cracked and he was carried to the bench. For the rest of the quarter our team lost in almost all yardage attempts. This forced Bob Hannon, who took over for Skip, to punt repeatedly. The first quarter ended—the Wamps 14, Milton 0.

Disaster in the air.

Hannon is forced to punt.

Half time on the inside.

A Braintree touchdown opened the second period, upping the score 20-0. Despite Hannon's quarterbacking, Ron Burgess's numerous stops, and Fred Wall's interception, impending disaster was in the air. To deepen our remorse, a Wamp field goal late in the period pushed up the score still further—23-0.

There were two half-times to this game: one outside on the field, and one in the locker room. While band music and silver batons floated over the field, agony of defeat rugged at our players inside their locker room. A stubborn feeling of determination, however, began to grow—a feeling that obsessed each player, a feeling that carried them through the rest of the game—a game they played as though they were winning.

Meek drives for short yardage.

Braintree halts Milton rushing.

The third quarter found quarterback Hannon badly shaken by a Wamp helmet planted in his chest. This sent Hannon to the bench with Skip. Bob Norton took over for Hannon. By now our determination was beginning to be felt. Fullback Ed Meek repeatedly made successful short yardage power plays; later in the period, Norton's pass to end Bob Staunton and a conversion by Meek brought the score up to 23-8. A final drive by Braintree climaxed the third quarter 34-8.

The fourth quarter proved to be our most successful period of the game. Norton's Houdini plays baffled the Braintree defense, while our own defense sent the Wamp quarterback scrambling. Midway through the period, a pass to back Tom Quinn and a pop pass to Staunton for the conversion, pushed up the Milton tally to 16. Braintree, however, managed to add six more before the end making the final score 40-16. And so—we lost. But losing is one of the five faces of the game, and perhaps just the other side of winning.

Meek crawls for two points.

... CHEERING

How many days of practice?

Their's is a cheerful face.

Some see football as screaming cheerleaders, majorettes twirling batons, and a drill team's military precision. These are the people spirit is made from. They complete the show. This show doesn't come cheap, however, for behind every minute stands many days of practice. These girls spend hours training for the few moments on Saturday. And they are always there, at the parties making shakers, at the rallies, and at the games rain or shine. Their's is always a cheerful face—a good boost.

Military precision.

.... BAND.

Thirty pieces from fragments.

Some see football as band music. This year, under the new leadership of Mr. Evans, a thirty piece band developed from last year's fragments. Mr. Evans's youthful outlook inspired the band to become a dedicated unit which could perform with confidence. Thank you, Mr. Evans, for bringing a functional band back to M.H.S.

A dedicated unit.

Performing now with confidence.

Many people, especially the kids, see football as a big hot dog smothered in mustard. Few people, however, realize the preparations involved in producing each hot dog. These preparations started the afternoon before the game. The crew, mostly girls, would lug everything into place. Saturday, the sleepy crew would stumble about all morning doing the chores: popping popcorn, boiling hot dogs, and perking coffee. Then would come the onslaught. However, despite stormy weather, demanding customers, mustard-covered hands, and cola-stained shoes, it was fun.

THE BIG PAYOFF

Another view of football is awards, the payoff. At this year's annual banquet, every participating player received a letter and an engraved trophy. The special awards were distributed by coaches Brennan and Lapworth. For recovered fumbles, Mark Kerrissey and Fred Wall shared the "Butcher" award. Skip Lapworth, who was absent due to his knee operation, received the Carota Memorial Trophy. The award was presented to his father. Even the coaches won. Both Brennan and Lapworth were presented transistor radios personally inscribed by the team. Mr. Ryan then closed the evening commenting on the season and the people who made it possible: the coaches, the parents, and especially the kids.

BASKETBALL

Cussy goes for two.

"Staunton takes the jump for Milton, over to Johnson. Johnson fakes, turns, runs around the end, hands off to Taylor who goes for the long bomb. No good. Cussy grabs the rebound, his fourteenth this evening. Cussy fakes, jumps, it's good. Walpole ball. Seldon steals and is cut down, but gets it off to Taylor. Leary goes for two, BANG! Three second penalty, Walpole's ball. Tyrrell is talking to Grissom on the side. Grissom has been benched the entire season due to a bad knee—a big team loss. Milton is out in front now by twenty points, and Johnson is running out the clock." So went one of our victories, a real rout. However, all of our games didn't go as well. Yet, with the experience gained this year, our very young team should sprout into a real threat for 1970.

Leary shoots—Bang!

CROSS COUNTRY

... two and one half miles ... twelve minutes ...

Cross country is just running, running, and more running. Two and one half miles in twelve minutes. This was the pace that co-captain Kirk Ives set for the team as the start of each race. In this fashion, Kirk broke five course records, one of which he himself had set earlier. Kirk's other awards included a silver medal for second place in the conference with ten other teams.

Following close in Kirk's footsteps came junior Kevin Cusick, the second half of Milton's one-two punch. Kevin showed great promise of becoming Milton's finest next year.

Sweeping Milton to second place.

Following the one-two punch of Ives and Cusick came Olander and co-captain Tom Muligan, who helped sweep Milton to second place in the conference and third place in the league, a great record for an underdog team. A team that began the season with only two returning lettermen. A lot of credit for this show must go to Mr. Kent's fine coaching. Next year's team will have many more letterman to begin the season with. This should prevent a repeat of Milton's heartbreakingly close, early season losses to Norwood and Framingham North.

Consistently fine coaching—Mr. Kent.

INDOOR TRACK

Following in Bob Hoy's footsteps.

McHugh now brings in points in highjump.

Relay—Milton's specialty

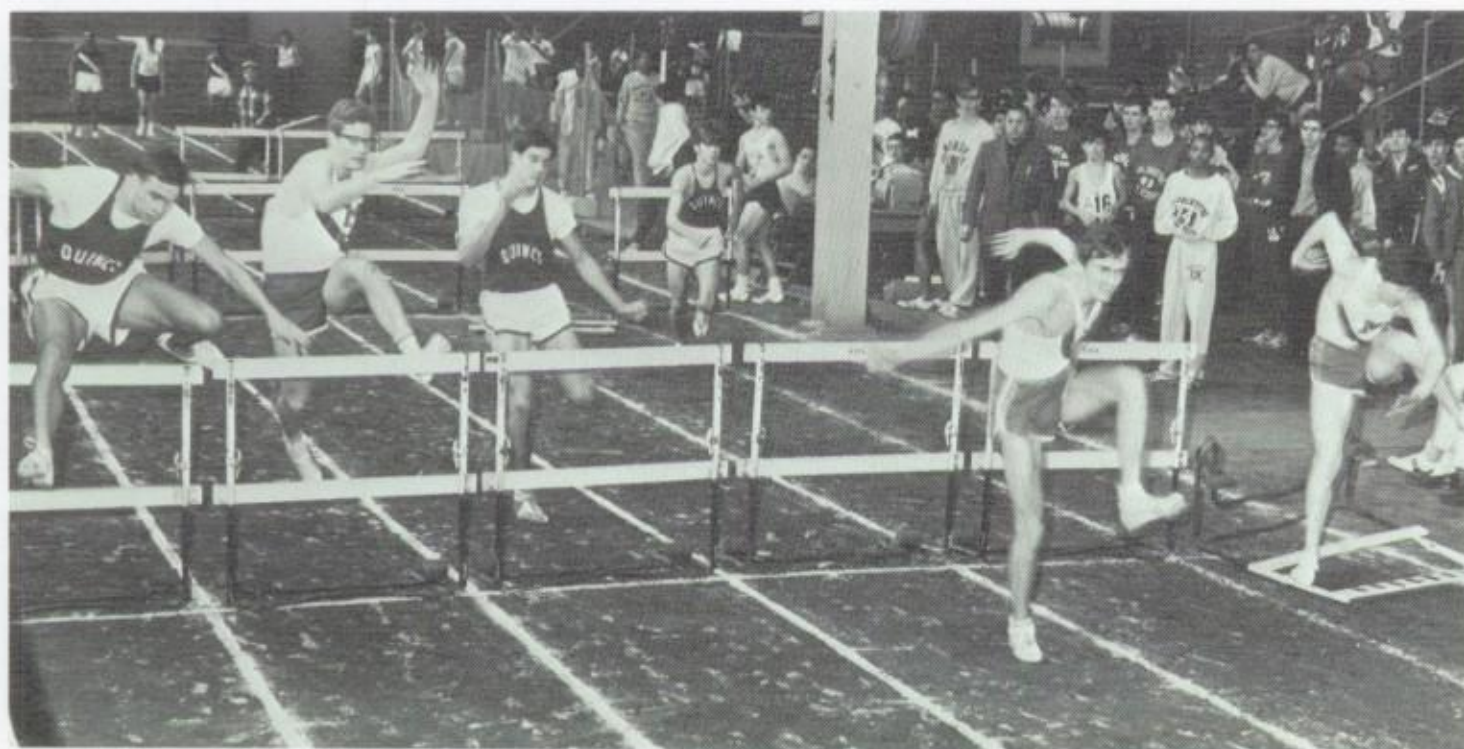

Just one loss, to Rindge Tech, kept Milton's Indoor Track team from becoming the second team in history to go victorious for twenty-four meets. Despite this loss, the team remained among the top three in its new division and fourth in the state. This year's team overcame two of its earlier hang-ups, high jump and hurdles, while maintaining its top record in the relay, Milton's specialty. Naturally, our individual runners remained tops in the league. In the State meet, three Milton trackmen placed in their special events: Jim Kelly took first in the thousand yard run, Gerry Roache second in the fifty yard dash, and Bob Hoy third in the shotput. Track is one sport where no one can deny our ability.

The Big 'Uns

O'Connor attempting to save Broderick

Lack of experience and loss of tri-captain Skip Lapworth to a knee injury, shot down our chances for a successful season. Captains Joe Mahoney and Steve Lane tried to lead the team over the top, but we just didn't have the depth. Despite the dogged efforts of our reserves, the majority of the action was left to our more experienced squad members. Yet, even this didn't turn the trick as Teddy Broderick, our rubber catcher, will tell you. Coaches Smigliani and Flaherty hope that next season, after our littl 'uns fatten to big 'uns on this year's experience, our team will be more successful.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

A big win over Norwood

Girls' Basketball
New for '69

Aced up, just like the boys

New to Milton's sports agenda this year was a varsity basketball team—all girls. Due to their inexperience, the girls didn't pile up the trophies, but they did take Norwood over the embers. Sue Martinelli, Laurie McBurnie, Linda Koppel and Nancy Biladeau proved that girls can work at this game as hard as boys and accrue a few ace bandages on the way. Don't believe in statistics girls; they have a way of changing.

SOCCER

Plagued by injuries and a chronic lack of manpower, a 2-1-11 season placed this small but hard-working team in a tie for last place in the league. Despite tremendous effort, the team lacked the depth needed to overcome the power of the other Bay State teams. To meet this challenge, soccer will need more support from both the school and the students. This is a great game, so let's really back it in '70. Somebody must care.

Baseball, archery, and tennis number among Milton's spring sports. Our archery range sported beshafted Dianas shooting away at balloon-covered targets, while our courts saw Fidler's enthusiasts practicing for upcoming tennis matches. And—the circus is back in town! But this season it's a Roman Circus with a winning combination. With last year's experience in pitching, batting, and fielding, the MHS baseball team is expecting to come up with a very winning season.

Track again proved to be one of Milton's strongest sports. Coaches Kent and Webster led their tightly-knit team of Indoor trackmen and field specialists through a highly successful season. Milton placed in the top three statewide. The following individual trackmen now lead the state in their special events. They are: Kirk Ives in the two mile, Peter McHugh in the high jump, Robert Hoy in the shotput, and Gerry Roache in the 100 yard dash. Milton is very proud of this team, and rightly so: they are real champs.

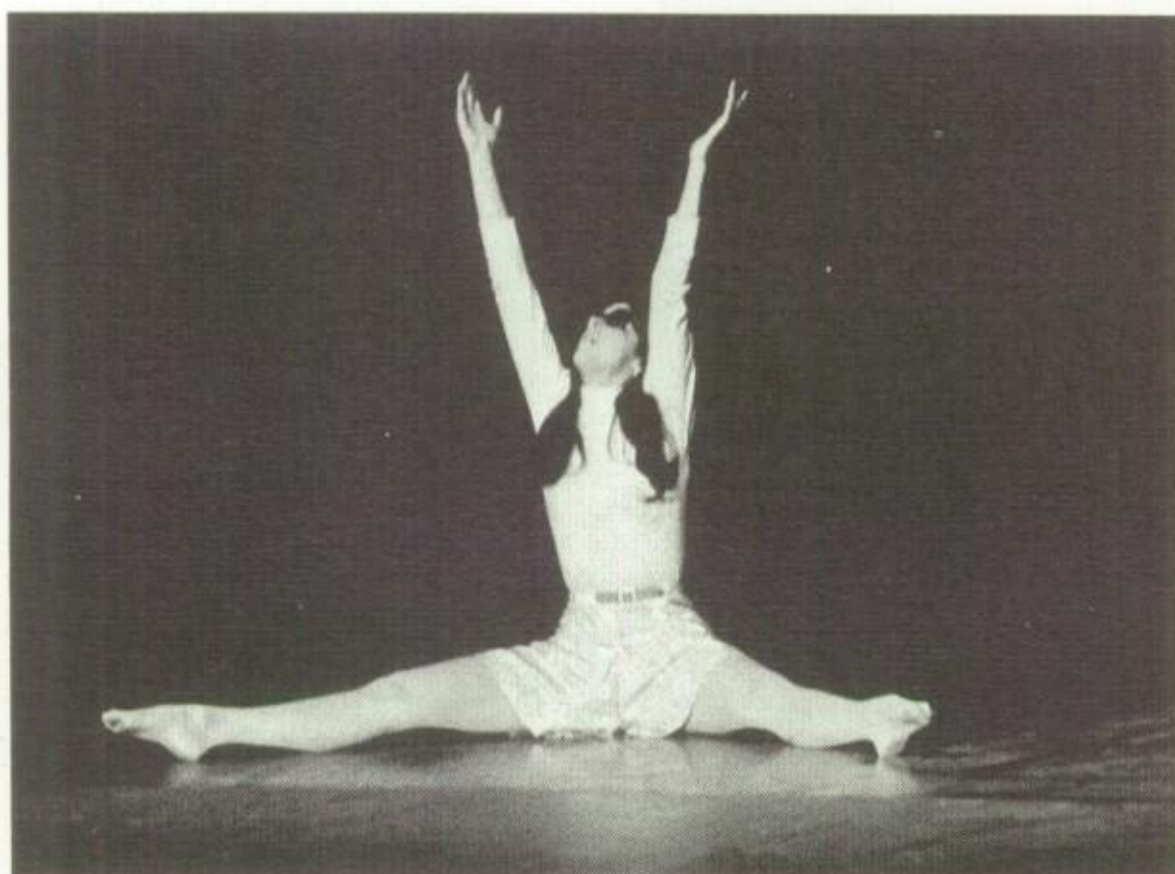

Sacrifice to the gods

Occifer Rutecki

Joyce Landman—The Darkest Search

The Gym Show climaxed a rigorous season for our gymnastic teams, both boys and girls. As usual, coaches Webster and Myers made this a fruitful season indeed for our boys in white. Co-captains Meek and Nugent fed their experience to the younger members of the team—and then watched them grow. Oh double trouble. Two early buddies were Dave Bloom and Jay Thompson, who should prove the leaders for next year's crew. Backing up the lessons of the co-captains, were super gymnasts: Ciaccio, Goldie, and Montani, on the rings, the horse, and on anything respectively.

As for the girls (something new in '69 competition), although they had their share of stars, they lacked the depth for a winning team. Hopefully, however, the experience gained this year will stir the sophomores and juniors to greatness next year. The girls had tremendous prowess; nevertheless, Carla Lanigan, our only girl trampoline artist, rounded the boys' routines with her graceful gyrations, while co-captains Beckerman and Burnham spun out some exciting floor exercise. On the balance beam, their strongest piece, Diane Jeffrey and co-captain Burnham exhibited the form which placed them among the top contenders in the state.

To both the girls and boys, congratulations on a great season.
